Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK (AP) — Putting the sport shot here and there:

The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers have both established fine marks of consistency this year . . . the Reds haven't lost more than two games in a row except once and the Dodgers haven't won more than two in a row except once.

How did sports writers ever manage to get interviews from athletes before the invention of the shower . . . you can hardly pick up a newspaper these days without finding a picture of a ball player or prize fighter scrubbing his back while telling his life story, or how he had won or lost, to some reporter . . . just yesterday Joe Williams asked what would happen to baseball if the government goes ahead with its plans to conscript all men between 21 and 31 . . . along this line, what would happen to football—a sport in which virtually no participants would be exempted by marriage . . . or should I just say what would happen to sport?

Any shot in the arm that tennis hoped for in the form of the younger California players simply isn't materializing . . . first Welby Van Horn was given the heave-ho by some unknown in the Seabright tournament, and now Jack Kramer also has been eased out . . . speaking of tennis, Gil Hunt prefers sleeping on a floor to sleeping on a bed. Maybe he is just getting in training for the next eight week expense regulation . . . weren't Bill McKeechie and a few other baseball men hailed as masterminds for converting Bucky Walters from a third baseman into a pitcher? What does that make Del Baker of Detroit, who has shifted Rudy York from behind the plate to first base and Hank Greenberg from first base to the outfield?

Just the other day I challenged Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees to a personal decathlon match, each of us to choose our own list of 10 events . . . knowing Gordon didn't play golf I included such items as driving, putting, getting out of traps and such devious pastimes . . . I felt a bit guilty about this until I received the Gordon list . . . Joe had listed such purely unselfish tricks as throwing to first base, sliding into third, fielding a Texas leaguer and stopping a line drive. His last note—in typical 1940 Yankee fashion—was striking out . . . so we gave both lists to an unprejudiced third party and are both eagerly awaiting the outcome . . . watch this space for further details.

Just to confuse those horse race bettors, we've now a horse named Thirty Eight to add to Eight Thirty . . . the chronological factor is really becoming important on the turf . . . there now are horses named One O One, Two O Two, Three O Three, Four O Four and Five O Five . . . personally, I still like the rhythm of 10 to 1, particularly if he arrives on time . . . While we're on the subject of horses, he did—now seven years old—has won five straight stakes . . . if you've heard the rumor that Jim Farley is going to write sports and I'm going to buy the Yankees, don't believe a word of it . . . at least I'd advise you not to read anything Farley might write about the McLEMORE-owned-Yankees.

Ken Overlin, the New York version of the middleweight champion, is supposed to be an expert on the subject of cocktails but I doubt if ever he encountered one with the sock of Billy Soose of Scranton, Pa. . . . Soose had more punch than grape juice spiked with rubbing alcohol . . . the man who said a good offense is the best defense obviously never heard of Cincinnati . . . the Reds are fifth in club batting and they are walking farther away from the rest of the National League with every step . . . no column is complete without a note on swimming so I'll just inform you that the 100 yard breast stroke will be held at the regulation distance this year.

Excavation Is Started On J. W. Lee Property

Excavation was started on Lower Main Street during the week on property owned by J. W. Lee and it appears probable that some business development is contemplated. Just what, we have been unable to learn, but there is a rumor upon the street that the site will become the home of a recreational hall, featuring bowling and billiards.

Mrs. Dorothy Weaver is here from Salt Lake City visiting with her brother, W. F. Dixon, operator of the store at Fresh Pond.

Mrs. A. Ailman Rites Friday

Secretary Of Women's Club, Church Worker, Succumbs Wednesday

Mrs. Agnes Ailman, 64, secretary of the Placerville Shakespeare Club and an active worker in church and women's organizations in the community, died Wednesday evening at a Sacramento hospital.

Funeral services will be held at Willows at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The arrangements were concluded with the assistance of the mortuary of F. D. Sweet & Son, at that city.

Mrs. Ailman had become a hospital patient on Monday and on Tuesday of this week submitted to an abdominal operation for the relief of a threateningly acute complaint.

Mrs. Ailman was a native of Mendocino County and had lived in California almost her entire life, residing at Willows, at Long Beach and at Sacramento, prior to coming to Placerville three years ago. Her late husband, David Ailman, was a petroleum engineer.

She was identified for many years as a business agent for a Sacramento commercial school and continued in that work to a limited extent after moving to this city.

A member of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, she had for many years been active in the Rebekah lodge of California and was a life-long member of the Episcopal church.

Upon moving to Placerville, she continued her interest in women's affairs and was active in the work of St. Agnes Guild of the Episcopal Church, was key woman for the local parish of the Episcopal church and was elected and installed this spring as Secretary for the Placerville Shakespeare Club.

More recently, she had directed her efforts toward the support of the production department of El Dorado County Red Cross chapter and shared with other prominent women of the county in the actual work of that group, and in the promotion of the recent benefit card party for support of the production department's work.

Mrs. Ailman is survived by two daughters, Miss Patricia Ailman, of this city, and Mrs. Virginia Breneman, of Willows, and by one brother.

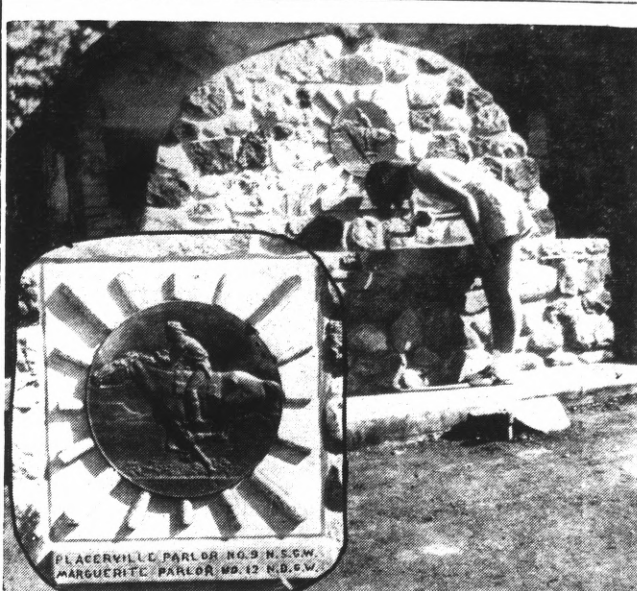

ARMY MANEUVERS CALL SEVERAL MEN FROM COUNTY

The Army maneuvers planned to take place near Camp Lewis, Washington during the month of August, will call several men from their accustomed civilian duties in the county, it was learned Thursday.

Among the reserve officers called to duty is Dr. Dan W. Babcock, First Lieutenant in the Medical Corps, who is called for duty August 8 to August 21, in connection with the maneuvers.

Several others of the county, who are members of Company E, 184th Infantry, California National Guard, at Auburn, will participate in the maneuvers, leaving Saturday, August 4, and returning on August 25th.

In this group are First Sergeant William Carman, of Placerville; Sergeant Darrell Nance and Corporal Lester Nance, of Pilot Hill; and Gayle Casebeer, of Placerville, and Harold Palmer, of Pilot Hill.

FOOD MAY PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN WAR'S RESULT

Recurring Discussions Indicate Continental Powers Expect Hostilities To Continue Through Winter; Malnutrition Is Threat

By J. W. T. MASON

UNITED PRESS WAR EXPERT

Recurring discussions in Europe about next winter's food and fuel supplies continues to indicate that the continental countries do not expect the war to end this year. German reports this spring that Hitler would be in London dictating peace terms before the end of the summer have begun to fade while Europe turns to the fast approaching problem of famine as war's winter weapon.

There really are two problems involved in Europe's food question—The first concerns shortages in the conquered countries and the second involves Germany and Italy. The two are associated, however, because of German seizures of food in the occupied territories, and necessity for Germany to pass some of this captured material to Italy.

Germany and Italy are trying to starve Great Britain into surrender and the British are endeavoring to prevent totalitarian victory by the withholding of supplies from the enemy nations. The blockade is a weapon of warfare always utilized when circumstances permit and in the end the sea power is the usual instrument of victory.

Humanitarianism recoils from starvation as a means of winning wars, but in an era when women and children are bombed from the air and submarines sink ships at sea without rescuing the crews, moral pressure to stop a hunger blockade lacks force. Germany, however, is trying to use the moral issue as a means of securing aid from abroad to balance next winter's food shortages.

Swiss reports say Germany is giving approval to a plan whereby France will request long term loans to purchase food and fuel in the western hemisphere for winter use, none of the supplies to be diverted for army consumption. The question here at issue, however, is partly military.

Supplies which might pass the British blockade for German conquered territory may well be distributed exclusively among the civilian populations, but at the same time the Germans would be able to take for their own use a proportionate quantity of the domestic food and fuel originating in the occupied areas.

Germany had a food shortage in the spring which was overcome only when invasion of neutral countries allowed supplies to be obtained from these markets in return for enforced payment in paper marks—especially has Germany been deficient in fats since long before the outbreak of the war—a shortage now made more acute. Green vegetables too are scarce in the Reich.

If Germany cancels plans for invading Great Britain or if the attempt is made and fails, the war will then become a test of physical and moral endurance, with food as possibly the deciding issue. Western hemisphere supplies now are blocked by the British fleet.

Germany may try to break the blockade through moral pressure, if Hitler believes the western hemisphere will respond to his moral appeals for indirect aid.

Great Britain might counter the German efforts of this kind by refusing to listen to the totalitarian-inspired arguments.

Should the war go through next winter, malnutrition seems certain to play an important part on the European continent. If vitamin deficiencies can be made to weaken the German morale, Great Britain would not be justified, from the standpoint of war to the finish, in relaxing blockade restrictions.

FOREST INSTITUTE CHANGE IN SUPERVISION IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made by E. I. Kotok, director of the California Forest and Range Experiment Station at Berkeley, of a change in supervision of the work at the Institute of Forest Genetics, at Fruit Ridge, which is a branch of the range and experiment station.

Mr. Kotok reports that the scope of the work of Lloyd Austin, who has been in charge, had increased to a point where relief from administrative duties seemed desirable to him.

Palmer Stockwell, who has been with the Institute since 1937, has been placed in charge so that Mr. Austin may be free to devote all of his energies to his field, progeny tests and selection of yellow pine. Director Kotok said.

Marilyn Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Colby, of San Andreas, is reported as getting along nicely at the Sanatorium following an appendectomy, performed Tuesday.

BRITAIN GAINS OFFENSIVE IN WAR

Hanover Is Bombed In Retaliation For Nazi Blasts At England

By JOE ALEX MORRIS

U. P. Foreign News Editor

The offensive in Europe's war can now be said to have passed into the hands of Great Britain. Establishment of a total blockade of the European continent this week by the British fleet places Germany and Italy on the defensive, which their own counter-measures at sea and in the air show no present ability to overcome.

German air raids over the British Isles are being fully countered by British retaliatory bombings with no indication that the totalitarian powers are able to halt the British attacks.

Germany and Italy reported today that the axis fleets continued a steady hammering of British Empire defenses, but admitted a series of British counter blows including severe bombardment of the great industrial city of Hanover.

The German high command said "explosions and fires" were seen after renewed bombardment of British ports, especially in the south. Further attacks were made on British shipping in an effort to tighten the Nazi aerial and submarine blockade.

The port of Dover—opposite which the Germans have massed huge military forces, including heavy artillery and naval units, along the French coast—again appeared to be a center of attack, but sporadic thrusts also were reported against the Thames estuary sector and as far as Wales and the important Bristol channel ports.

The British reported increasing confidence in their own aerial, coastal and naval defenses.

The British aerial raids on Germany have been designed primarily to smash possible blitzkrieg bases from Norway to the French coast but also have hammered at centers of German war manufactures, especially in the crowded Ruhr Valley area.

The German communique said that bombs dropped from a high altitude had damaged severely a number of houses and caused casualties at Hanover, but that the bombs fell far from military objectives.

Irving Named To New Fruit Post

P. F. G. A. President Is Vice-Chairman For Protective League

Fruit growing in El Dorado county has gained further recognition in the state as a result of the recent election of James A. Irving, president of the Placerville Fruit Growers' Association, to be vice-president of the California Fruit Growers and Shippers Protective League.

Mr. Irving had been named by the California Fruit Exchange of which he is vice-president, to be its representative to the board of directors of the league succeeding the late J. J. Brennan.

In the election of officers by the directors of the league, George H. Casey, president of the Pacific Fruit Exchange, was named president and Mr. Irving was named vice-president.

The league board of directors will hold its regular meeting Friday at Sacramento.

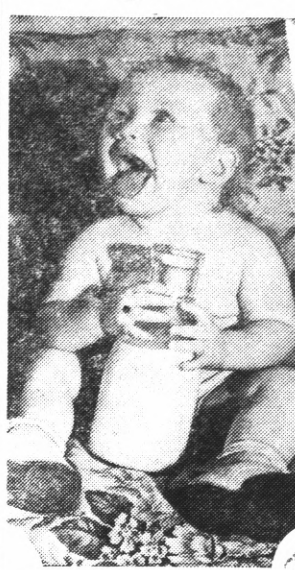

Wallace M. Ripley came into the office at about the same time George Atkinson arrived with a telegram this afternoon, so we took the telegram from George and, after reading it, passed it to Wallace.

"Good enough! I'd sure publish that," said Wallace, and so here's the telegram, from the United Press as Sacramento:

"Lick observatory said next Venus eclipse by Moon in 300 years. Not unusual see Venus daytime when sun unbrigh, rare all conditions ideal see eclipse. Your yarn swell. United Press."

Now you see how newspaper writers "spik."

FRUIT HARVEST IS UNDER WAY

First Car From County This Season Yields $2.80 Per Box

El Dorado County's annual harvest of Bartlett pears, peaches and plums is at hand with marketing factors influenced by the circumstance that the export trade is virtually eliminated as a result of the war in Europe.

Packing is under way at the large plant of the Placerville Fruit Growers Association, which handles the bulk of the county's fruit crop, and also at the smaller packing sheds of Pacific Fruit Exchange, the Lambert Marketing Company, the F. M. Small Company and the Gold Ridge Fruit Growers' Association.

Shipment of the first car of Bartlett pears from the county was claimed by the F. M. Small company. The car was shipped July 16th and was sold in Minneapolis at a car price averaging $2.80 per box.

It is authoritatively reported that the crop of Bosc pears which, in other years, has gone into the export trade, will go this year to canneries, being shipped in bulk.

GEORGE MARTINEZ RITES TO BE HELD SATURDAY IN PLACERVILLE

The funeral services for George Martinez, for many years a resident of the Shingle section, will be held Saturday afternoon from the Dillinger mortuary chapel. Rev. J. W. Dunlop will have charge. Burial will be at the cemetery at Shingle Springs.

Mr. Martinez passed away Wednesday at his residence near Shingle. A native of Mexico, he had for a number of years been employed by the El Dorado Limestone Company. More recently he lived in retirement on the small acreage he had acquired in the Shingle district.

Relatives, living in Mexico, survive, but friends report that Mr. Martinez had not communicated with them for many years and it is doubtful if it will be possible to locate them.

JULY BIRTHDAYS FETED AT GATHERING SATURDAY NEAR NEWTOWN

The Charles T. Carpenter home, near Newtown, was the scene of a very happy gathering on Saturday, July 20, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of Mr. Carpenter. There were four among the guests whose birthdays fell in July.

Mrs. Carpenter prepared a very fine turkey dinner which was served on the south porch of their home with beautiful gardens surrounding it and the splendid view of forest and sky line in the distance;—truly a sight to distract one's appetite, but it didn't seem to, much. Music and discourse ended a very happy day.

Those present in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter and daughter, Miss Betty Carpenter, included Mrs. Barbara Ferretto, Miss Elizabeth Ferretto, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Raffetto, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Christian, Mrs. A. Avansino, Mrs. E. Easton, Mrs. L. Lavelle and the Misses Ruth and Dorothy Lavelle.

DRAFT MAY BE LIMITED TO 1,000,000

Senate Committee Proposes To Call 500,000 Men In Fall; 500,000 In Spring

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate military affairs committee today postponed final action on the conscription bill as strong support developed to limit its immediate application to 1,000,000 men.

Under the latest proposal, the army would be permitted to draft 500,000 men this fall and a similar number next spring, all of them between the ages of 21 to 31. There would be no further draft without specific authorization by congress.

War department officials were invited to appear before the committee tomorrow to give their views on this plan, which was introduced in the form of an amendment by Sen. Styles Bridges, R. N. H., who yesterday seconded Lee's plan to limit the bill's application to men in the 21-31 age bracket.

The senate itself began debate on a bill giving President Roosevelt authority to mobilize national guardsmen and army reservists for a year's training.

Cool Winds End 12-Day Heat

401 Died Of Prostration, 356 Others Drowned, National Survey Shows

By UNITED PRESS
Cooling winds from the northwest billowed toward the Atlantic coast today to bring relief to thousands who had sweltered 12 days in abnormal summer temperatures. The U. S. Weather Bureau reported that temperatures were at almost normal levels all through the nation.

The wave of intense heat had taken almost 800 lives and caused inestimable damage to crops, particularly to the corn and forage crops in the central and western states.

Temperatures dropped to the 70s in the Great Lakes area where for more than a week the mercury hung near the 100 degree mark. The New England season was lashed by a freak wind, lightning and rain which caused almost $1,500,000 damage but brought relief after the second hottest day of the year. The storm was described as the most severe since the 1938 hurricane.

A survey showed that at least 401 had died of heat prostration and 356 were drowned. Pennsylvania led the states with 112 deaths. Ohio reported 92 and Michigan 81.

2,890 HOLLANDERS KILLED IN GERMAN INVASION, SAYS BERLIN

BERLIN, (AP)—D. N. B., official German news agency, said today in a dispatch from The Hague, that the final figures for Dutch casualties have been established at 2,890 killed, 6,889 wounded, and 29 still missing.

It was further announced that an investigation by Rotterdam magistrates revealed that 619 persons had been killed during the fighting in that city.

(The Netherlands legation in Washington issued a statement on July 16th in which it said that more than 30,000 people had been killed in Rotterdam alone during seven and one-half minutes of bombing by German planes. "Four thousand unoffending men, women and children died per minute" the statement said, "and 70,000 others were maimed and injured.")

Shanghai Loot

By T. T. FLYNN

The S.S. City of Shanghai is docking at San Francisco carrying more than $3,000,000 of un-set jewels which are the property of the Republic of China and which have been entrusted to Mandarin Lee Wong for sale in the United States. Application has been made to Apex Surety for theft insurance. Simultaneously, Apex has received word that international thieves plan to steal the jewels. Egypt Carse, Apex's noted detective, and Police Lieutenant Carewe go to meet the City of Shanghai with Milligan, manager of Apex.

CHAPTER III

THERE was silence in the lavishly furnished steamer suite. Egypt Carse squinted thoughtfully and let a king's ransom in milky pearls run through his sun-darkened fingers. They dripped one by one the table on which lay square after square of black velvet, each holding its individual heap of gems: pearls, diamonds, rubies rare jade—all unset, all gleaming and flashing back the rays of the light overhead with their own particular refractions of color. And the man who answered Cochet and Egypt Carse was the most colorful of them all—the Mandarin Lee Wong.

SIX FEET to an inch in his scarlet, ankle-length coat, embroidered with gold braid stood Lee Wong. The buttoned cap of a mandarin of the old empire was on his head, and the wisdom of many years was etched into his fine old face.

Lee Wong spoke pure English with an Oxford accent; his education having been completed in England. Pride and sadness were in his voice.

"There is only one pearl like that, gentlemen. That blemish you to the square of heavy black velvet on the table top, rolled briefly, stopped.

"Are you aware that a plot to steal the jewels has been uncovered?"

Egypt sorted through them with a finger, picked out the largest, fitted a jeweler's glass into his eye and scanned it intently. The pearl was as big as a small pigeon's egg, perfectly round, glowing with that healthy luster found only in a globe built up from layer after layer of living nacre.

"A beauty," Egypt said, taking the glass out of his eye. "But it has a moon-shaped blemish that will knock the value down considerably. It might be peeled. Or, if there was another to match it, the value of each would be greatly enhanced."

The thin, precise appraiser for Apex Surety nodded.

"A remarkable pearl," he agreed. "But the blemish must be taken into consideration; must be discounted. I would not recommend peeling. It might ruin the entire pearl. You are right, of course—the value of each would be greatly enhanced."

There were six men in that steamer suite, standing around

Somebody Else Waits on Me

To me, a real vacation means two whole weeks free from worry about beds, and meals, and cleaning up the house. We always stop at real hotels because my husband says I deserve a taste of the kind of service I give at home the rest of the year.

It's Fun to Travel with Dad

My dad's First Class—he takes mother and us children to real hotels at night. We think that's half the fun of traveling. We always see lots of interesting things to tell our friends about. When I get big I'm going to stay in real hotels too.

I Like to Stay Right Downtown

A big part of my vacation is the shops and stores of other cities. When we stay at real hotels—right downtown—I see them all. And a hotel gives us a headquarters where we can meet at anytime, without depending on the car to get us back and forth.

A Lot More for Your Money

To me a real hotel means a place to entertain our friends, a forwarding address for mail, having my car worked on at night while I get a real sleep in a comfortable bed, in quiet, safe surroundings, and plenty of other services all under one roof.

I'm convinced that staying at real hotels pays plenty of dividends in comfort and convenience. Sure, sometimes it costs a few cents more. But when I consider all the extra fun and pleasure it brings my family, I figure I'm money ahead to travel First Class and stop at real hotels.

J. Jones as farm advisor.

Neighborhood NEWS

YOUNGS NEWS NOTES

A birthday dinner was given for George Tappan on July 19, in honor of his 87th birthday. A very lovely dinner was served after which everyone had "oodles" of ice cream and cake. Mr. Tappan was born at St. Clair, Michigan, in 1853, moving to Nebraska in 1868, where he resided at the time of his marriage to Ida May Burdick. Mr. and Mrs. Tappan and daughter, Artha, came to Galt, California, in 1890.

They moved to Youngs in 1906 at which place they now reside on their ranch. The Tappans celebrated their Golden wedding at Aukum Hall in 1937. Mr. Tappan says he is on his annual trip around the Sun at the rate of 200 miles per minute, and barring accidents and incidents on the way, expects to say "Hello" in his very cheerful way on July 19, next. Those present at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. George Tappan, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Myers, Betty Fowler, Madeline Allison, Virginia Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams and son Henry, and Mr. Neal of Turlock. We all join Mr. Tappan's many friends in wishing him many more happy birthdays.

A large number from Youngs went to Stockton to attend the funeral of Edgar Jerome Gish, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gish.

Mrs. George Butler was a visitor at Bucks Bar on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warren and Ellen Reynolds were at Bucks Bar from San Ynez Way, Sacramento, Sunday.

Art Hutton is home at Buck's Bar from Ione where he has been working on a dredger.

Miss Rosie Calkins of near Youngs, has announced her coming marriage to a young man from Los Angeles. The couple expect to be married some time in August.

Mrs. Pound and children, Marilee and David have returned to the Youngs district after several weeks vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow De Witt of Los Angeles have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed De Witt of Youngs.

The dance at Pleasant Valley brought the same happy crowd out and many new ones—Vic and his gang played many new tunes which were enjoyed by everyone, and all liked the old-timers, also.

Paul Frey returned to Stockton from Bucks Bar on Sunday to report back to work as chef at the Kress store. Paul has been visiting his aunt and brothers at Bucks Bar. Monte Reynolds was at Buck's Bar on Tuesday from Nevada.

Mrs. Ida Tappan was visiting Besie Wentz on Tuesday.

Six families met at the Hutton home on Tuesday evening for ice cream and cake in honor of the birthdays of Junior Leonard and Jackie Gibbs. Everyone had their fill of ice cream and two very pretty birthday cakes.

Mrs. Leavitt's sister, Mrs. Jessie Flint of Fair Oaks spent last week visiting here. Mrs. Flint, Mrs. Leavitt and the children came uncomfortably close to stepping on a rattlesnake one day last week while on their way to a spring in a nearby meadow. They were warned in time by their dog "Billy" who preceded them along the path. Mrs. Leavitt hurried back to the house for a gun but in the meantime the snake disappeared. It was believed at one time that there were no rattlers in this area but a number have been killed on the Earl Fruit ranch in the past few years.

SHUTTLE CAR CREW BLAMED AS 43 ARE KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

CUYAHOGA FALLS, O., (UP)—An official of the Pennsylvania Railroad today blamed the crew of a self-propelled shuttle car for a collision which killed 43 persons.

E. W. Smith, vice president of the road, said after a preliminary investigation that the crew of the gasoline motor-driven car failed to take a siding as ordered, and thus crashed into a double-header freight train bound in the opposite direction on the single track.

He absolved the crew of the big freight train of responsibility for the crash and fire.

TELEPHONE COMPANY TAKES STEPS INTENDED TO PROTECT SERVICE

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company within recent weeks has instituted certain practices intended to safeguard the public welfare to the extent to which uninterrupted telephone service contributes to that welfare. We understand that the policies instituted are the same, generally, as those instituted throughout the nation by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidiaries.

Without going into detail in the matter, it will suffice to state that the policies instituted are of a nature intended to insure full protection to the company's plant operations against espionage or possible sabotage.
